EDspaces 2022 Call for Presentations Now Open

The Education Market Association \(EDmarket\) in partnership with EDspaces is looking for creative thinkers interested in shaping the future of learning to present at EDspaces, November 2-4, 2022, in Portland, Oregon. EDspaces, the education industry's primary conference and expo focused on state-of-the-art learning environments, features more than 150 speakers sharing unique perspectives and experiences about integrating instructional technology, space, and pedagogical needs to improve student outcomes.

Industry professionals and education leaders are invited to share their knowledge and expertise by submitting proposals for engaging presentations focusing on proven practices and evidenced-based research shaping the future for educators and students.

The EDspaces Advisory Group is developing a series of curated sessions that inform and support excellence in educational facilities in the following program areas:

- Campus Safety
- Community Engagement
- Design/Project Management
- Environment/Health/Sustainability
- Facility Operations/Best Practices
- Funding/Equity
- Pedagogy/Student Outcomes
- Technology/Infrastructure

EDspaces is unique in providing education sessions in designed classrooms that provide an extension of learning for participants to experience first-hand the latest product and space innovations in a variety of collaborative, flexible educational settings. In addition, mini-sessions are held on the exhibit floor throughout the event and deep-dive workshop opportunities round out the education program.

Thought leaders willing to share expertise with an audience of facility professionals including decision-makers from Pre-K to Higher Ed, dealers, architects, and interior designers are invited to submit a proposal. Deadline: March 7, 2022.
