EDmarket Launches edgallery to Showcase Innovation

Gaithersburg, MD (October 1, 2024) — The Education Market Association (EDmarket) has launched edgallery, a new website to highlight innovative projects and products in the educational market. edgallery features a curated selection of groundbreaking products and projects designed to enhance learning experiences. The new site includes year-round recognition on the edgallery website, along with a quarterly insertion in Essentials magazine.

“Education leaders have asked for a place to start their product research and a source for exemplary learning environments. EDmarket is excited to offer this new website, just in time for EDspaces, to help inspire them to design and build the best learning environments possible for our students and educators.”

— Jim McGarry, EDmarket President/CEO

The edgallery website provides a platform for manufacturers to showcase new products and new offerings to existing products to influential decision-makers in the education sector. The site also allows the industry, including A&D, reps and dealers, to highlight exemplary projects including classroom makeovers, renovations and new buildings. The site is being promoted to purchasing officials, superintendents, facility planners, educators, distributors, and the A&D community for inspiration and research.

New submissions of new and award-winning products and projects are being added daily. Reserve your spot now.
